Plenty of wake to pull off a ridiculous move at a ridiculously less expensive price

When you're looking to put on a show, you'll need plenty of people in the audience. Good thing the Sea-Doo 230 WAKE takes care of both.

Every inch of the new WAKE from Bombardier Recreational Products Inc. is designed for those looking to go big, and 12 seats are designed for those looking to watch. Standard comes with a long list of wake-friendly features that are extra-cost options on many pricier wakeboard boats, like dual ballast tanks (1,000 pounds) that turn the wake into a launching pad, up to 430 horsepower of 4-TEC power to spring you from the water, and a new walk-through transom for easy access to the big stage off the back.

It all adds up to a performance that'll earn quite a few encores.

When you stack the Sea-

The all-new 2008 Sea-Doo 230 WAKE is a high-performance machine that is easy on the pocketbook.

Doo 230 WAKE up against the Mastercraft X Series, you will get all the features without the big price.

Let's start with what matters most: HORSEPOWER.

With the 230 WAKE Edition Sea-Doo, you get 430 horses. The Mastercraft X30 pushes out about 400. The Sea-Doo is 23.6 feet long and just 3,650 pounds; the X30 is 22.5 feet long and a huge 4120 pounds -- lighter, bigger and more powerful, the only thing left is features.

The Sea-Doo doesn't skimp in the features department. Take a look at what you get for only $50,999 with Sea-Doo (see the sidebar). The X30 will cost you about $80,000 -- and all its features will be add-ons and could cost as much as $10,000 extra. That's $40,000 more than the Sea-Doo.

Living on The Edge

Line up now for the new Can-Am ATVs

Catch the new 2008 Can-Am ATV line-up at The Edge Motorsports in Draper. It includes the most innovative sport quad to date: the 2008 Can-Am DS 450 EFI.

Can-Am continues to revolutionize the ATV industry with its innovative designs and top-notch technology. Its 2008 line-up shows just how focused it is on the ATV sport market. Its maker, Bombardier Recreational Products Inc., is a leader in the snowmobile market with Ski-Doo and in the watercraft market with Sea-Doo and Evinrude outboard motors. Now they're out to do the same thing in the ATV sport market.

Outlander

The Outlander has been a serious contender in the sport-utility market ever since BRP introduced the Outlander 400 in 2003. The Outlander family has expanded each year, adding 500cc, 650cc and 800cc versions with multiple models of each. These go all the way up to the two-rider Outlander Max 800 H.O. EFI Ltd., which is a full-luxury touring ATV.

The Outlander is also a familiar face at the racetrack, as Can-Am won multiple utility championships in 2007, including the new WPSA Quadterrain Manufacturers' Cup.

For 2008, the Outlander family does not add any new members, but it does get many upgrades. All 500, 650 and 800 models get a new digital gauge and a redesigned CVT sealing system to keep the belt and clutches dry when it gets wet outside.

The 800 gets new EFI mapping, which gives it 11 percent better fuel economy. That is a significant boost, given today's $3-plus gas prices.

There are additional styling updates across the board and a new 3,000-pound winch on the Outlander XT package.

Renegade

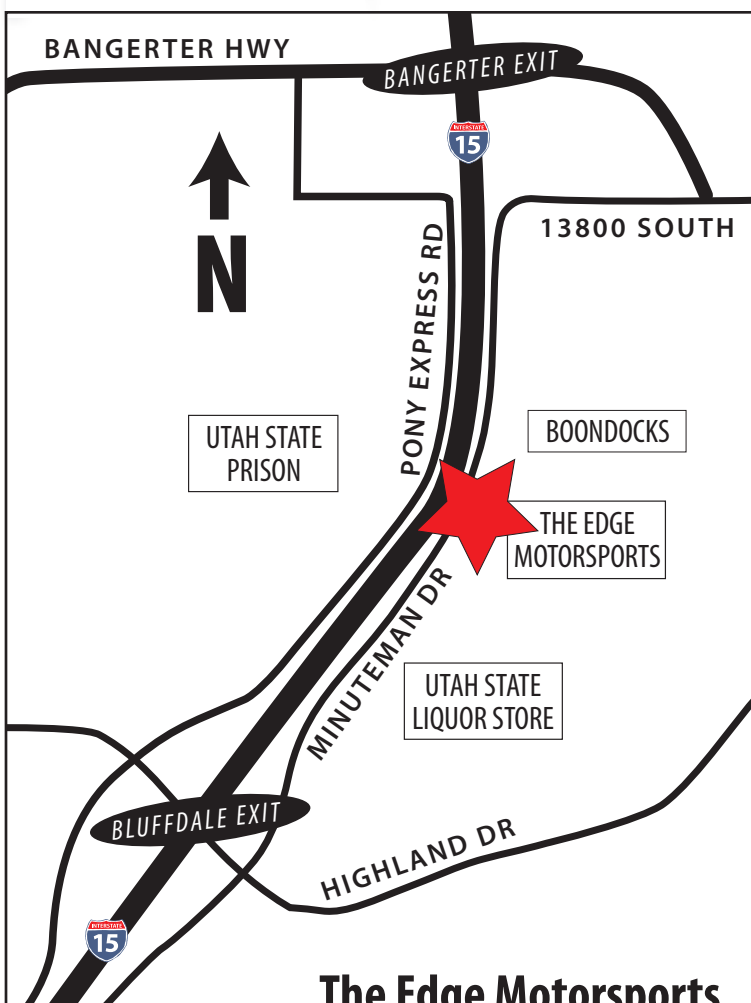

The Renegade 800 oozes in testosterone.

Can-Am introduced the Renegade 800 to the marketplace in 2007. The Renegade is in a class of its own: the Sport 4x4. Unlike the normal 4x4 ATV, the Renegade is void of racks. It carries a sport-tuned suspension, yet retains full 4x4 capabilities. The Edge Motorsports received its long-term test unit over the winter, but test riders are just now getting to spend time out on the trails.

For 2008, Can-Am adds a new 500 model to the Renegade lineup. The Renegade 500 is virtually identical to the Renegade 800 but with one difference: the Rotax 500 H.O. EFI V-Twin power plant.

Also new for the 2008 Renegades is split brake controls. Like most sport bikes, you can now control your front and rear brakes separately for much better brake control. The Renegade models also get the improved Visco-Lok calibration and better CVT sealing.

DS Family

As though there were not enough changes, the DS family adds three new models and loses one. Going away is the DS 650 first introduced back in 1999. The DS 650 has won numerous Baja championships and has proven popular with desert and dune riders, but it's heavy and outdated in the current marketplace.

Of course, the biggest news is what is sure to be the most innovative ATV of the year: the new DS 450 EFI.

But not to be left out are two all new youth models a DS 90 and a DS 70. Both feature four-stroke engines and long travel suspension. They also feature day lights, unlike most of the youth models on the market.

Sea-Doo puts wakeskate at forefront of watersports

Sea-Doo personal watercraft have been at the forefront of the wakeboarding phenomenon since the sport's inception as a sponsor of the Pro Wakeboard Tour in 1992. Since that time, Sea-Doo has been a major factor in the wakesport community, and is now considered to have the ultimate PWC for performance towing.

The Sea-Doo WAKE returns as the premier tow vehicle of wakeskaters worldwide. The 2005 model comes with the powerful and cleaner 155 HP Rotax 4-TEC four-stroke engine, dual detachable board racks and retractable tow pylon. This edition is the only watercraft specifically designed for watersport towing and is the official watercraft of the Pro Wakeskate Series.

Bombardier Recreational Products Inc. is known for providing the ultimate recreational experience, bringing innovative, trendsetting products to the marketplace that is changing the way people enjoy recreational activities. Sea-Doo PWC have become the preferred tow vehicle for top athletes during the recent trend of sliding and the hottest new board sport, wakeskating. The WAKE is another example of how BRP listens to its customers to deliver the products they want.

Sea-Doo PWC offers the quick, agile handling that's required for towing, and it produces minimal wakes, ideal for sliding and grinding, the latest trend in watersports. Less expensive to operate than a traditional inboard ski boat, Sea-Doo personal watercraft are very popular in the wakesport arena.

The fastest growing watersport today is wakeskating; an activity that is best described as skateboarding on the water. The board is smaller than a traditional wakeboard and is covered with grip tape to hold the rider's feet in place rather than bindings found on a wakeboard.

Wakeskating is considered to be much more technical than wakeboarding, making the pull behind a Sea-Doo WAKE ideal for such tricks as butter slides, kick flips and grinding on sliders.

Sea-Doo PWC has also teamed with Cassette Wakeskates and the Cassette Wakeskate Team to produce wakeskate-specific promotions, including a special advertising campaign featuring many of the world-class Cassette riders such as 2005 Pro Wakeskate Tour Champion Danny Hampson, legend Thomas Horrell and Aaron Reed.

The Sea-Doo WAKE will also appear in various underground wakeskate videos in 2005. Look for the Cassette/Sea-Doo team riding at a lake near you in 2005.

The 2005 Sea-Doo WAKE is the official watercraft of the Pro Wakeskate Series, a competition that travels across the USA, where fans can see their favorite athletes performing the sickest wakeskate tricks known to man.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

José Boisjoli

As President and Chief Executive Officer of Bombardier Recreational Products Inc., José Boisjoli is in charge of global operations of the following product lines: Ski-Doo® and Lynx® snowmobiles, Evinrude® and Johnson® outboard engines, Can-Am™ ATVs, Sea-Doo® watercraft and sport boats, as well as Rotax™ engines and karts.

José Boisjoli, President and CEO of Bombardier Recreational Products Inc.

Mr. Boisjoli joined Bombardier Recreational Products in 1989, after 8 years in the pharmaceutical and road safety equipment industries. During his 14-year career with Bombardier Recreational Products, he has gained vast experience in the following sectors: product engineering, finance, marketing, sales, manufacturing operations, procurement and resource management, distribution and logistics, industrial engineering, quality assurance, and human resources.

Three years after his arrival at Bombardier Recreational Products, Mr. Boisjoli was appointed Vice President, Resource Management and then promoted to Vice President, Manufacturing Operations. In October 1998, Mr. Boisjoli was named President of the Snowmobile and Watercraft Division, the largest division of Bombardier Recreational Products. In April 2001, he was given the added responsibility of managing the ATV Division.

Mr. Boisjoli's involvement in the community resulted in the creation, in 1993, of the Bombardier Sea-Doo/Ski-Doo Chair in technological change management in small and medium size businesses at the Université du Québec à Trois-Rivières. He is a member of the Orientation Council of the Institut de Recherche sur les petites et moyennes entreprises (Research Institute for small and medium size businesses) at the Université du Québec à Trois-Rivières. Mr. Boisjoli is also a member of the Board of Directors of the International Snowmobile Manufacturers Association (I.S.M.A.).

Born in 1957, Mr. Boisjoli obtained a bachelor's degree in engineering from the Université de Sherbrooke in 1981. He is a member of the Ordre des Ingénieurs du Québec (Québec Professional Corporation of Engineers).

Spyder-man, Spyder-man, doing the things a Can-Am can Bombardier Recreational Products Inc. has unveiled its first "on-road" vehicle, the 2008 Can-Am Spyder roadster, which is the next dimension in open-road riding. And you can get one of the first to arrive in Utah this summer at The Edge Motorsports in Draper.

This three-wheel vehicle – two wheels in the front and one in the rear – offers a completely new and stunning look.

"A true paradigm shift, the Spyder roadster offers a balance of performance and peace of mind with features like the Vehicle Stability System, engineered in conjunction with Bosch, which includes anti-lock brakes, traction control and stability control systems," said José Boisjoli, BRP president and CEO.

Powered by a proven 990cc V-Twin engine designed and manufactured by BRP-Rotax, the Spyder roadster with its unique Y architecture can be described as part motorcycle and part convertible sports car.

BRP's reputation was built on its ability to innovate and design products for powersports enthusiasts. After more than five years of research, the Can-Am Spyder roadster is now delivering on the company's promise to offer a complete line of recreational motorized products in four segments: on snow, on water, on the road and off.

"With Can-Am Spyder, we are redefining the roadster category by bringing the powersports experience to the road through this new generation of vehicles," Boisjoli said. "BRP is entering a new era that will provide growth opportunities for our company worldwide and potentially create new jobs."

The Can-Am Spyder roadsters will be assembled in Valcourt, Boisjoli said.

"This event also marks BRP's first truly global launch," said Chris Dawson, vice president of Strategic Planning and head of the Can-Am Spyder Program. "In 2007, BRP deployed the first phase of its go-to-market strategy: 12 selected American states and four Canadian provinces offered Can-Am Spyder roadsters through BRP's existing dealer network, followed by France and Spain in early 2008."

In its second phase, BRP will expand its Can-Am Spyder offer to more North American states, Canadian provinces, Europe and other countries and expects to be present worldwide within three to four years, Dawson said.

of features with Sea-Doo, it should be a no-brainer choice for your family.

Last but definitely not least, with the Sea-Doo you'll never have to worry about your kids swimming or playing around the back of the boat. Because the Sea-Doo is jet-driven, there's no prop sticking out right where you get in and out of the boat.

The boat also sits in just 12 inches in the water. That's comforting in the low-water years. The Sea-Doo is just simply a great value and a great boat. See more information about this boat at www.seadoo.com or visit The Edge Motorsports at 14301 South Minuteman Dr. in Draper.

"Our service technicians are all fully certified and they work fast," Bryan says. "We serviced over 350 machines last month. So if you need service on any of your motorsports equipment, bring it to The Edge Motorsports and we'll take care of you."

One of the main things that sets The Edge Motorsports apart from other dealerships is the fact that they try to develop a personal relationship with each and every customer.

"Everyone who works here loves the motorsports industry and wants to help others enjoy it as well," Bryan says. "I have people who work for me who race motocross, people who are wakeboard fanatics and others who know the ATV trails in Utah better than anyone. Make the most of your recreation dollars

Club Rec and The Edge Motorsports help families create lifelong memories

Quick! Name all the gifts you got for Christmas the year you turned 10. Draper's Bryan Green bets most people wouldn't remember. But chances are good they'll remember a boat or ATV trip they took with their family.

Green owns and operates Draper's The Edge Motorsports, a full service dealership for Suzuki, Sea-Doo, Ski-Doo, Can-Am, and KTM, where customers not only have their choice of boats, ATVs and snowmobiles to purchase, but also have the option of accessing such equipment timeshare-style. Green pioneered the concept of time-sharing recreational equipment in 2002 when he started Club Rec, in which customers buy a membership to use a variety of equipment.

"We have something for every season," Green said, noting that Utah's climate and scenery make year-round recreation easy. A Club Rec membership enables people to try it all – using snow machines in winter, sport boats and personal watercraft in summer, and ATVs or RVs year round.

He cautions customers to invest in equipment the family will use regularly. "If you're not using your equipment, you can't justify the expense," he explains.

For those who have a boat or ATV they only use once or twice a year, Green believes they can get more for their recreation dollars. "We all know people who only use their equipment once or twice a year. If that's you, come down. We accept trade-ins for membership. You can finance it and pay monthly."

Green has found that many people who join Club Rec are able to introduce their families to a broad range of recreational opportunities.

"They find their passion," he said. "Some people are passionate about snowmobiling and other people find that they love ATV riding or boating."

By purchasing membership in the program, Green's customers can try it all before committing to buy a particular piece of equipment. "Many of our members end up becoming purchasers of what they do the most," Green said.

The number of available memberships is capped at 250 in order to guarantee availability of the finest equipment for Club Rec customers. With surging demand for memberships, Green has begun franchising, with 7 locations in Utah and more outside the state beginning in

"In reality, you're buying an experience," said Green. "Ten years from now, you won't remember the V-Twin, fuel-injected 800 engine and independent suspension. What you'll remember is your kid saying, 'Hey dad, do you remember when we went ATVing?'"

Green finds that many people put off introducing their kids to the recreational opportunities Utah has to offer. He tells his customers, "Get the experience and buy a snowmobile, water craft, ATV or a ClubRec membership for your family now, before your kids grow up and leave. You'll remember it forever."

The Edge Motorsports and Club Rec are located on the East Side of I-15 just south of Boondocks at 14301 S. Minuteman Dr. Call 801- 561-9601 or 801-495-3278 for more information.

time they come in."

The Edge moved from its smaller location to a new 26,000-square-foot showroom at 14301 South Minuteman Drive in Draper two years ago. This new building is the largest motorsports showroom in Utah, and Bryan says his store is the one to beat.

Travis stops by The Edge Motorsports to autograph some bikes.

When Travis Pastrana comes to Utah, The Edge Motorsports in Draper is always on his list of places to visit -- and that's because it supports him by loaning him bikes and ATVs to use while filming and practicing.

Just last month, Travis stopped by the showroom. He was in town to film some stunts for Godfrey Entertainment -- he was practicing a triple back flip! Yes -- a triple! How cool is that?

Travis practices his triple back flip during his recent trip to Utah -- He is using a bike from The Edge Motorsports!

So he stopped in, got a couple bikes and chatted with the staff and some local fans. They love the sport of motorcross, and so they do anything they can to help Travis, as well as all of the members of The Edge Motorsports race team.

Travis Pastrana is undoubtedly becoming the most notable two-wheel athlete in the world, but The Edge Motorsports wants you to know that it has the best athletes in Utah on its team.

Team members: - Just to name a few:

- Shawn Strong, KTM, No. 1 USRA Desert
- Preston Brigman, USRA Moto
- Heather Barlow, No. 1 USRA Motocross
- Eric Barlow, Suzuki USRA Moto Champ
- Landon Powell, KTM USRA Moto
- Casey Powell, USRA Moto
- Taylor Chapman, USRA Moto

Travis going for it again -- a triple back flip has never been done.

• Gregg Godfrey, Freestyle Filmmaker

The Edge also supports local snowmobile film maker Dan Gardiner and his group of local favorite snowmobile riders, Geoff "Fatty" Dyer, Ryan Nelson, Trent Gough, and Rick Barker, as well as local Ski-Doo hill climber Marc Menlove. This year the film crew has a Ski-Doo XP supplied by The Edge Motorsports. Don't miss their next film Boodockers 5. The Edge will host a film premiere in the fall 2008. If you think you have what it takes to be on The Edge Motorsports team, stop by their showroom anytime and talk to Bryan Green, or call 495-3278. They're always interested in new talent.

Travis Pastrana loves The Edge Motorsports and all of the local fans.

Central Trails

The Arapeen OHV Trail

The Arapeen OHV Trail System is located in south central Utah in the Manti-La Sal National Forest. Over 350 miles of ATV and 4X4 routes are included in the system.

The Great Western Trail

The Great Western Trail: The Great Western Trail will be a continuous trail stretching from Mexico to Canada, and traversing some of the most spectacular scenery in the west.

Southern Trails

The Paiute ATV Trail

Probably the best organized ATV trail system in the country. Friendly townspeople, great riding, and fantastic scenery. The main loop is 250 miles, with all the spurs it's almost 2000 miles.

Canyon Of Gold Ridding Tour

West of Marysvale Utah, the mouth of Utah's "Canyon of Gold" stretches before you. From at least 1865, flecks of gold in the creek and veins of gold inside her walls have drawn the hopeful to this canyon by the thousands.

Canyon Rims Recreation Area

Canyon Rims Recreation Area is an immense, diverse region located between the southeastern Utah towns of Monticello and Moab.

Coral Pink Sand Dunes State Park

Twelve miles off U.S. Highway 89 near Kanab, lies the wide-sweeping expanse of Coral Pink Sand Dunes State Park.

Casto Canyon Trail

Beginning at the Casto Canyon trailhead the trail takes you into a wonderful world of red hoodoos, sandstone cliffs of white, pink and even green colors. The spectacular red rock is evident along most of the Casto canyon ride until you reach the forested areas of ponderosa pines where the colors changes with every turn of the trail.

La Sal Mountains

The Manti-La Sal National Forest punctuates the scenic wonders of southeastern Utah. The three separate mountain blocks provide islands of green rising above the desert. Here visitors can find adventure, romance, and unparalleled scenery.

AMA SUPERBIKE CHAMPION - AGAIN

- A. Thoroughly redesigned engine, chassis and suspension make the already-dominant GSX-R1000 higher performing and better handling than ever.
- B. Compact and lightweight 999cc, inline, four-cylinder, DOHC, 16-valve engine provides even more power and torque across the entire powerband.
- C. SHOWA rear shock offers new, refined high-speed and low-speed compression damping adjustability.
- D. New electronically controlled steering damper reduces damping force for lighter steering at lower speeds and increases damping force at higher speeds.
