As women, we often receive the message that we should shrink with age—quiet down, step back, fade out. But what if maturity is not a time to retreat, but to expand? This talk invites us to reclaim expansion through three powerful rhythms:

Gather—Build meaningful connections, community, and wisdom.

Grow—Continue evolving emotionally, intellectually, and spiritually.

Serve—Offer our experience, energy, and purpose freely and fully.

This is a conversation about wholeness, legacy, and the bold truth that our greatest work may still be ahead of us.

As a community champion, philanthropist, and advocate, KRISTIN ANDRUS focuses her passion and expertise on women, children, and refugees within and beyond Utah. She likes to personally understand the root cause of issues and is known for regularly showing up to listen, learn, and lend a helping hand. She recently launched her new nonprofit, Gathering for Impact, to empower women to use their unique strengths, abilities, and interests to “Gather, Grow, and Serve. Kristin loves to gather people and “get stuff done”. She is a bright light in the Utah philanthropic community illuminating issues and opportunities for others to serve.
